Dear Colleague,

Now you can get reliable grantmaking information easier than ever with Foundation News & Commentary. With this inside source for foundation news, you'll get in-depth analysis of giving trends. Peer-to-peer advice. Insight into foundations through exclusive research results. And much, much more.

You're invited to take advantage of Foundation News & Commentary's unique perspective by subscribing today.

Our concise reporting keeps you up to date and informed on the key issues in your field. You'll appreciate the quick-read articles, which are tailor-made for your busy schedule.

Subscribe today and you'll also enjoy your new bird's-eye view into foundation workings—everything from grantee/grantor relationships to how foundations collaborate and award grants.

Discover valuable grantmaking information that helps you stay on top of grantmakers' needs in our special sections:

- Three Funders explores "hot" foundation topics by seeking the opinions of three foundation executives who share their first-hand experience and personal views.
- Small Wonders highlights family, corporate and community foundations that are doing a lot with a small amount of money.
- Hands On reveals how foundations and nonprofits are creatively solving problems, particularly by using new technology.

Plus, you can immerse yourself in the on-target and applicable stories you'll find in our regular departments ...

- Of All Things addresses the latest changes in legislation that affect nonprofits and foundations—and puts it all in clear, easy-to-follow, plain-English language.
- Reviews, widely recognized as one of the finest review sections of videos, books, reports and other nonprofit publications anywhere, helps you sort through the many resources that inundate our sector. Every review is written by an authority on the subject, giving you a balanced foundation perspective.
- People keeps you posted on the comings and goings in the foundation world, giving you fresh leads for valuable new contacts.
- Releases announces the arrival of new books, videos, Web sites and various other foundation support material.
- Research delivers the information necessary for benchmarking your organization and developing investment strategies. You'll read about exclusive, ground-breaking research statistics and survey results on foundation management and investment practices. Plus, you won't want to miss the Council's yearly compensation survey on foundation executives.

Written by nonprofit leaders from across the country.

Because Foundation News & Commentary is written entirely by other nonprofit executives, not reporters, you get a unique insider's perspective of grantmaking in every issue.

It's the only publication of its kind where you can read how foundations really approach the proposal process. Be privy to an examination of what foundations look for at site visits. And have the tools and facts you need to compare one foundation to another.

In six indispensable bimonthly issues, you'll...

Learn from your peers. Benefit from expert advice, such as how to engage and maintain donors. Where to find the right staff for your organization. How corporations are setting priorities.

Get inside the minds of grantmakers. Page after page, story after story, Foundation News & Commentary will revitalize your thinking with ideas from articles about how donors choose their giving strategy, new giving interests of foundations and how foundations are planning for the future. Find out what funders think about the Request for Proposals process.

Stay abreast of critical issues and emerging trends. Learn about the personal experiences of grantmakers in the public policy arena. About collaborative grantmaking. About out-of-the-ordinary nonprofit ideas that work.

And for in-depth coverage of a selected topic, you'll love our popular Special Issues. Published at least once a year, they focus on important topics relating to the foundation world, such as Technology, Values, Communication and Public Policy. After reading these Special Issues, you'll probably want to save them for future reference.

Gain personal insight about how foundations operate.

You'll get a detailed look at grantmakers around the world. Learn why and how certain philanthropists choose to give. What might make them give to you.

Fascinating Q&As introduce you to leaders like the California Wellness Foundation President & CEO Gary Yates and Curtis Meadow, Jr., long-time president of the Meadows Foundation.

Put the latest foundation research to work for you.

When you subscribe to Foundation News & Commentary, you'll learn about important Council on Foundations' research and survey results first. See how many foundations are using the Internet. Find out when and why foundations evaluate their program effectiveness.

When you're putting together your fundraising strategy, it's exactly this kind of information that helps you hit your target.

I urge you to join the thousands of nonprofit and foundation professionals who continue to benefit from reading Foundation News & Commentary. Don't miss out...
