

Working Group on Economic Relations

Definitions:

The term economic, in the context of this working group, shall encompass, but not be limited to distribution of goods and services, use and regulation of natural resources, environmental administration, regulation and policy, banking and finance, trade and commerce and development.

Charge to the Working Group

- [1] The Working Group on Economic Relations shall draft an analytical paper on relations between nations and nations and states in the economic sphere (as defined above). This document shall report the practice and policy of nations and states as they interact in the economic sphere. The report shall be no longer than fifty pages and shall include notations and references.
- [2] The Working Group on Economic Relations shall draft the language of an International Protocol on Economic relations between Nations and Nations and States which shall contain provisions describing a framework for relations based on mutual cooperation and respect, and language describing a framework for conflict resolution when two or more nations, or nations and states are in dispute.
- [3] The Working Group on Economic Relations shall serve as a technical advisory body to the CNS Plenary Body and to appropriate CNS sub-organs.

Membership

The Working Group on Economic Relations shall have seven members of whom three shall represent states' governments, three shall represent nations' governments and one shall serve as the Chairman/Rapporteur.